SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE NEW YORK HERALD

WASHINGTON, April 4-8 P.M.

The Senatorial caucus held yesterday, to which allusion is made in the Union this morning, as being "a coalition between Feward and the Southern whigs," Sec., was simply a preliminary meeting, with a view of consulting with the whig members of t e House as to the time and place for holding the national convention. No other question was introduced, and therefore it is simply absurd to talk about a coalition. Mr. Mangum was in the chair, and Mr. Jones, of Tennessee, acted as secretary. The feeling of the meeting was in favor of fixing the time about the middle of June, and Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Annapolis were spoken of as the place for holding it, with a decided feeling in favor of the latter. All these points, however, remain for future consultation, after conference with the whige of the House. The matter will probably be arranged this

The steamers Cataract, Georgia, and Western, which were lying alongside at the time, sustained considerable damage. Several were also killed on board these boats. The number of the killed is not yet ascertained, but it must be very large. The Glene took fire, and burnt to the water's edge. Particulars to-

HAVANA. March 29, 1852. The Suproaching Festivities-Shipwrecks-Cuipable Negligence of the Marine Authorities. Nothing whatever of interest to you has occurred here since my last letter. The siempre fiels appear to have their attention entirely occupied in preparations for the Fiesias Beales, which come off on the 11th, 12th, and 13th of April, and, as I said before, are to be on an unusually grand scale. On the morning of the 22d, soon after sunrise, considerable excitement and curiosity was awakened among the crowds of people on the second, and the appearance or a large English ship in the offing, having in tow another large vessel, or rather the mere hull of a vessel, for the neither had masts or bowsprit. The English ship continued sailing with the other vessel in tow, tacking off and on at the very mouth of the harbor, making signals of dietress, and asking for assistance. Unfortunately, none was sent to them, as ought to have been done, if the harbor-master or captain of the port had known his duty, and the two vessels having approached too near the coast, the English ship, which proved to be the Loud Ashley, of Liverpool, laden with tour and corn, from Now Orleans to Liverpool, went on shore clove to the Mcro Castle, where she soon became a complete wreck. The other vessel proved to be the Greek bark Pandia, also from Now Gricans, laden with cotton, and bound to Trieste. The famils had lot ther masts in a white squall some ten days previous to her being failen in with by the Lord Ashley, off tape San Antonio, the latter vessel having towed the Pandia over 200 miles. Had a steamer been sent out to ils vessels immediately, the Lord Ashley would not have been lost. The master of the latter vessel, counting upon the assistance which he had a right to expect would be find to him as soon as the port authorities lish ship continued sailing with the other vessel in tow, would not have been toot. The master of the latter vessel, counting upon the assistance which he had a right to expect would be sent to him as soon as the port authorities were made aware of the circumstances, had approached too near the ceast; but finding that no such assistance was coming to him, he tacked ship off the land, but it was too late. What with the heavy surf driving him towards the shore, and the great bulk in tow, his vessel became unmanageable, and she went ashore. The Greek was saved by her anchor holding the ground, the wind not having so much effect upon her, as she was without masks, &c. When too late, the Captain of the port sent a steamer to their assistance. Hed this been done at first, the Lord Ashley, a fine new ship of 200 tons, would not have been hast.

It was too lad, while doing a good action, and arriving safe with the Greek in tow, to be lost at the moment he was as it were, thanking dod for having reached a post of refety, and all from the want of a little common humanity in not sending to the said of the two vessels in distress. The Captain of the port was positively looking at them all the morning with his telescope, until they fashly went schere, and then and only them, be thought of conding them assistance, when too late? The worst of it is, the Lord Ashley is not insured.

The Eniver-Sugar Grinding-The Markets-Reports, &c. The western end of the island has been visited with continued and heavy rains during the past fortnight, which have put a step to sugar grinding and will contime to interrupt it for some days to come. This cause may shorten the cropten or fifteen per cent from what it would have been under more favorable circumstances. There is considerable talk now that the yield will fall 000,000 bexes short of last year; but I am inclined to thick that the estimate is too high, and that sugars can be purchased a mostil hence lower than now. Senor Almonte, the chief of the monarchical party, has presented to Congress a bill in favor of establishing in the Halls of Montexums a regular old fashioned bank, a ta Well street, capital to be $1,500,000, distributed among 15,000 shareholders, of $100 each; the bank to be one of deposit, discount and circulation, with restrictions that look very well—on paper, as those of Plainifield and it genus come. A good and safe bank is certainly very dealerable, as, until now, all banking business, discount and deposit on interest, has been in the hands of a few haaling houses, who mostly employed the money thus obtained for their own reckless speculations. This has led to many disasters, of which the present commercial ending houses, who mostly employed the money thus obtained for their own reckless speculations. This has led to many disasters, of which the present commercial ending houses, is a pretty fair specimen. Thus, credit has been destroyed, and mkery entailed on many a family who had placed their all in their hands. Should, therefore, such a bank, as is proposed by Almonte, be established on a sound and solid basis, it will remove many of those dangers, impart a new life to commerce, and may do more towards the property of the commy than all dengreeses and Lagiblatures. It will, at all events, diminish the rate of interest, varying at present from 10 to 15 per cent.

The late sittings of the Legislature in Vera Cruz have been rather interesting. A new move towards a move liberal policy has been made by Senor Arillaga—the John Rume of Vera Cruz—who presented a zeries of resolutions which will be sure to create some excitement, whicher they be adopted or rejected by the supreme government. I give you here a translation—

3.—To grant the immertation of or every 100 points (quintas).

4.—Crarse woulden and cotton merchandles to pay only four cents a yard.

5.—To should all home taxes on cotton factories.

The record bill presented by him requests congress to admit all articles for general consumption, with a reduction of at least 5 per cent on the duties charged on the rame articles by the United States. The meaning of this bill is very coar; and as its adoption by the general government is probable you had before from your own inferences, and place them before your readers.
